Achievements

Patrick has over forty-five years' experience in the Project Management and Construction industries. His career was initially focused on the planning and managing of construction, engineering and infrastructure projects. The last twenty-five years has seen Patrick's businesses, and experience, expand to include the successful delivery of project scheduling services and PMOs in a range of government, ICT and business environments. The key element of Mosaic's current business mix, project management training, has been developed in the last decade with Mosaic having been commissioned to deliver training courses and seminars around the world.

Some of Patrick Weaver's major achievements include:

- Vice President Global Services, Project Management College of Scheduling from 2015 to 2018.
- Member of the organising committee for the successful Project Governance and Controls Symposium, Canberra: www.pgcs.org.au
- Member CIOB time Management working group responsible for publishing the Guide to Good Practice in the Management of Time in Complex Projects (2011) and Guide to Good Practice in the Management of Time in Major Projects (2018).
- Member of Standards Australia committee MB12 focused on developing standard for project, program and portfolio management, including leading Australia's input to ISO 21505 Governance of Projects, Programs and Portfolios.
- Being President of the Chartered Institute of Building Australasia from 2006 to 2008 and being invited to participate in the development of CIOB's new international governance structure.
- Developing a range of successful training courses and workshops for PMI accreditation (PMP, CAPM and PMI-SP) as well as a range of advanced project management topics including risk, schedule, Earned Value and estimating courses.
- Being part of the Doyles Construction Lawyers legal team responsible for successfully managing two of the largest claims made by a builder under the Australian Securities of Payment legislation.
- Being the Managing Director of Micro Planning International Pty Ltd from 1987 until 1999. MPI develops and markets project management software and provides training and consultancy support to its clients. Under Patrick's leadership MPI grew to have a turnover in Australia in excess of $1 million pa, and 20+ professional staff.
- Providing on-going scheduling, resource management and Earned Value expertise to assist in the development of the VIPER aircraft maintenance management system. Over a 15 year period through to 2014, this system and its predecessors is credited with saving the Royal Australian Air Force many millions of dollars in maintenance costs and is currently being used by commercial contractors providing maintenance services to the RAAF.

- Managing the scheduling team for the successful Optus Y2K project, including developing systems and integrating a team of 12 planners to support the overall Y2K program.
- Construction scheduling and contract administration for a wide range of projects including the new Brisbane International Airport terminal and the expansion of the Sydney International Airport terminal (both projects were completed on schedule), New Parliament House, Canberra and the Myer Centres in Adelaide and Brisbane.

In the last few years, Patrick has sought to 'give back' to the industry he has participated in since leaving college and has contributed to both the development of the project management profession and enhancing professionalism in the building industry. In addition to his committee roles in the CIOB, he was actively involved in the PMI volunteer teams developing the PMBOK® Guide, the Organizational Project Management Maturity Model, the Practice Standard for Earned Value and the Practice Standard for Scheduling and has contributed to the Standards for Program and Portfolio Management. He is a 'working group' leader within the Australian mirror-committee supporting the development of a range of international standards for project, program and portfolio management, including the completed ISO 21500: Guide to Project Management, and ISO 21505 Guide to the Governance of Project, Program and Portfolio Management.

Patrick has presented papers at a wide range of project management conferences in the USA, Europe, Asia and Australia, has been part of the organising committee for two PMI Congresses in the Asia-Pacific region, the PMOz conference series and has an on-going role with the organising committee for the PGCS symposium in Australia.
